The Promise of Liberty

Winds blow fierce and foul storms rage.
Safe shelter seems a hopeless dream.
But in the dark a promise beams,
a beacon to a golden age.

[Chorus] "Give me your tired, your poor,
Your huddled masses yearning to breathe free.
Give me the wretched from your teeming shore.
Send these, the homeless, tempest-tossed to me,
I lift my lamp beside the golden door."

So cries the strong heroic woman,
raising her arm to light the way.
Her words ring out from day to day
to greet each wave of immigrants. [Repeat chorus]

Some crossed the sea in a tempest squall.
More came by land up the hemisphere.
Still there's room for everyone here.
The promise of liberty welcomes all. [Repeat chorus]

Winds still blow and storms still threaten the shelter we build in this new land.
But here we weave a fabric grand
Made strong from many colored threads. [Repeat chorus]

Duration: 3 minutes

The text is by the composer. The chorus is adapted from the sonnet, "The New Colossus," by Emma Lazarus (1883), written to raise money for the construction of the Statue of Liberty's pedestal. Since 1945, her poem has graced the entrance to the Statue of Liberty in New York harbor.

The Promise of Liberty is designed to grow in complexity and intensity over the course of 4 verses and 4 choruses, from unison to 5-part SATB with optional descant. The verses are: unison, women only, men only, and 4-part SATB. The choruses are: unison, 3-part SATB (with tenors doubling the soprano melody), 4-part SATB and 5-part SATB with optional descant. The conductor may also invite the audience to join in the final chorus. The Promise of Liberty may be sung unaccompanied or with piano accompaniment.
